

Results Matter

We strive to produce quantitative and qualitative data to support decision making, refine program delivery, and meet established program goals.

Goals in brief: Stand by Me friendship building:

Onward Bound teen workshop goals are to engage, bring hope, gather positive indicators and outcomes particularly from youth at risk or ex-offenders and those who feel hopeless, locked in perpetual poverty. They will gain job interview skills, problem solve, and learn an inside track to a possible rewarding career.

Measurements:

How are we doing? We welcome you to examine data from activities conducted during the July 20, 2015 workshop as students walk through a systematic learning experience of designing a replacement for a broken stove knob. Student inmate Carla receives CADD advice from a prison guard, Mechanical Engineer Marvin points to Jerome's design for improvements, Andrew is eager to learn and loves friendship. All designs are ready to post to 3D printer.
